

A name's your identity, that's what it's for.
 Without it, your pers'nage is somewhat a bore!
 You'd point and say, "Hey, you!", but they all would say, "Who, me?"
 And you'd never sign your name on receipts at the store.

You just would put, "Person Anonymous Guy",
 Which I guess is a name. ... is it? Maybe... - oh! ... hi!
 What? MY name? It's Sonomura, Joshua Skye!
 Don't ask me why- oh. Why? ... well, I'll try!

We'll start with Los Uno, that's Joshua, right?
 A prophet earned that name, so let's shed some light!
 A look at its roots, and meaning, to boot
 Prove it to be "Jesus", in Romanized sight.

Well, it could mean "God is salvation", as well,
 But Jesus was Romanized to Josh, I tell!
 But it was intent, ladies and gents,
 As "Jesus", not that one, and I'll never sell.

Now, right onto Skye, my personal fav.
 It describes me better than Joe, Jack, or Dave!
 It just seems to ooze pure wackiness, toos
 And it just keeps the creative flair that it gave.

It stands for the "eternal heav'ns" (with an E)
 Well- just as the rest of that name tends to be.
 With its true shafts of light, I could nearly take flight
 Knowing that it's my name, truly me, to a T!

And fin'ly, Sonomura tells of Gardens of Eden,
 Its warm-shaded haven, and dastardly deed in
 "The garden villáge", like some compact montage,
 In just eight words that it's decreed in.

Each word has its feelings and uses. That's true!
 The second's my USUAL name. (And it's blue.)
 The third makes me think that I'm taking a drink
 In containing my grandparents' house, or its view.

The first makes me think of the prophet ago
 That marched seven times round' the wall Jericho.
 His men thought him mad, but he knew what HE had!
 He had God on his side! Well, didn't ya know?

... in short, I love every one of my names!
 They've described me SO well. I'm glad they came!
 But... mostly I'm Skye, and don't you ask why
 Since we've run out of time, all the same!

... so, my name is Skye, and I guess YOU asked why!
 Thanks so much, Mom and Dad, for my name(s)! Goodbye!